Throughout the United States

Mobilize Projects.

Facilitate partnerships.
- Increased capacity within community to provide goods and services to and work at anchors.

Create co-learning opportunities.
- Increased willingness and capacity within anchors and community to collaborate for health, wealth, and resilience.

Scale the model.
- Increased evidence that ARC model supports anchor mission and bottom line and community health, wealth, and resilience.

Create co-learning opportunities.

Facilitate partnerships.
- Increased access to good jobs and capital for locally-owned businesses. Increased community ownership and social enterprise.

Create co-learning opportunities.
- Increased access to social and economic determinants of good health and well-being.

Scale the model.

Facilitate partnerships.
- Decreased GHG emissions due to increased local procurement by anchors.

Create co-learning opportunities.
- Increased hiring, purchasing, and investing by anchors in community.

Community Wealth

- Authentic, trusting relationships between anchors and communities.
- Increased awareness among anchor leadership across the U.S. that community development can be part of their mission and support business goals.

Community Health

- Increased evidence that ARC model supports anchor mission and bottom line and community health, wealth, and resilience.

Climate Resilience

- Decreased chronic disease rates and increased well-being for people experiencing health inequities.

Market + Institutional Transformation

- Creation of decentralized, community-owned regional networks for critical community needs (e.g., food, energy, water)

Market Disruption + Transformation

- Anchors become system integrators.
- Regions across the United States adopt the ARC model for anchor-community partnership for health, wealth, and resilience.